

RSL establishes partnership with District Councils

The Revenue Services Lesotho (RSL) took a big step towards enhancing collaboration with leaders in community level through a meeting with members of the Botha Bothe and Maseru District Councils on the 24 and 25th July 2024 respectively. The meetings formed part of the broader RSL strategy to build and maintain relationships with local councils to enable information sharing and collaboration.

According to the Head Strategic Partnerships and Public Relations, Mr. Pheello Mphana the meetings were aimed at introducing the RSL to members of the councils and to establish collaborative relations.

He said the meetings were also aimed at bridging the gap on information sharing between the RSL and local communities on RSL initiatives. “We realized that updates on RSL initiatives and programmes only reach people in towns and does not easily cascade down to the communities. The initiative aims to assist the RSL to reach wider audience with updates on initiatives and services through the community councils across the country,” he explained.

He also said that the partnership with local councils will enhance implementation of tax education and Corporate Social Investment (CSI) programmes in the communities.

The members of both district councils applauded the RSL for the initiative which they described as long overdue. The discussions also saw the RSL and the district councils committing to hold further engagement sessions through a consolidative plan to ensure that the collaboration drills down to the local council’s level.

Plans are underway for the RSL to hold similar engagement sessions with all district councils across the country this financial year.
